

FSI Announces: Interagency Planning for Conflict Transformation

PD562

This one-day overview course is the second in a series offered in cooperation with the Office of the Coordinator for Reconstruction and Stabilization (S/CRS). The success of the USG's conflict stabilization and transformation efforts will depend heavily upon the ability to plan early and develop an integrated, interagency approach to deal with the interdependent civilian and military responsibilities on the ground. The purpose of this course is to get a broad understanding of the planning framework developed by S/CRS, related tools, and the role of the framework in fostering an integrated approach to future conflict transformation efforts. The framework enables USG civilian agency planners to identify and gain policy-level approval for the overarching policy goal, achievable major mission elements, and the essential tasks of an integrated USG response. The process coordinates a resource strategy to achieve the mission goal, identifies lead agencies responsible for essential tasks, and incorporates a structure for metrics and evaluation.

Course Objectives:

- Describe the process and methodology for whole of government R&S planning
- Understand and apply the conflict transformation approach
- Cite and apply specific criteria and principles for sound planning, e.g. goal formulation, developing metrics
- Apply the whole of government R&S planning framework to collaborative formulation of USG Strategic Goals and Major Mission Elements (MMEs)

Audience:

- USG civilian staff likely to be involved in R&S Initiatives
- DOD staff with direct integrated R&S Mandates
- USG civilian (ARC, SRC)

Prerequisites: PD561 Coordination for Conflict and Instability: S/CRS and Interagency Response
